*The Road That Helped Build
the Nation*

Ohio National Road Association

Welcome to the Historic National Road in Ohio, part of the road that helped build America. The National Road, also known as Route 40, spans over 700 miles, including 227 miles through ten counties in Ohio. On your journey, you will pass historic landmarks, forested hills, industrial towns, and modern cities. We are glad you have made the Historic National Road and its many treasures your destination.

In 1806, the Historic National Road was commissioned by Pres. Thomas Jefferson as the nation's very first federally-funded interstate highway. Originally constructed from Cumberland, Maryland to Vandalia, Illinois, the National Road was the pathway that guided early American settlers to the western frontier. The Road opened Ohio and much of the Old Northwest Territory to further settlement, provided access for Ohio products to the burgeoning eastern markets and enabled Ohio citizens to play an important role in the affairs of the new nation.

Two hundred years later, the Ohio National Road Association is working to preserve the history and charm that was brought to the numerous communities along the Road by the early pioneers.

Please take the opportunity to see the many attractions and historical sites along the Road!
